PREFACE.

PREFACE.

Nor forgetting the inconsistency of addressing the general public in a book "privately printed," the compiler is desirous of drawing the attention of the professed genealogist to some points of its construction which are more or less novel.

First. The system of numerical reference. Avoiding the array of figures (so disheartening to the novice — so frequently requiring special study from the expert — yet, in many cases, worse than useless to both) the system retains only a distinguishing number for each individual of the name.

Leaving the children of married daughters unnumbered has the negative merit of avoiding high numerals and the positive advantage of easily distinguishing such families during a hurried examination.

Only the title surname may be safely "understood" in genealogies, and in this compilation allied surnames are printed in full.

By using his distinguishing number for each of the male ancestors at the head of each family sketch, instead of the usual generation number, the reader is led, easily and unerringly, along his own path, to the first settler.

He whose patience has been taxed by a search for his own ancestors among many bearing the same christian name in the early generations of some printed genealogies will appreciate this. Genealogies are used backward; from the known to the unknown.

Second. The system of interleaving. This plan, leaving alternate folios blank in setting up the form—commends itself for its cheapness when applied to a whole edition, for the fact that it shows but one color of paper on the edge, and because it brings no undue strain on the stitching.

Third. The "Ancestral Tables." These, retaining the page form and avoiding the awkwardness of the folded pedigree, give much interesting genealogy compactly.

Fourth. The Index Tables. These present at one view, with all the compactness of the other "Tables," the ramifications of a whole tribe and an index to the pages on which the various boughs, branches and twigs are more minutely described.

Fifth. That the Index, covering all subjects, is in one alphabet.

Some readers may need to be reminded that previous to 1752, the year commenced with March. This will explain the seeming inaccuracy of dating in February, for instance, the probate of a will signed in December of the same year, or the date of a birth in January from a marriage in March. Dates in January, February and March before 1752 are very generally printed as of both years; for instance, the marriage of 1 Joseph, 22 January, 1734-5, p. 31.

In the Ancestral Tables of the appendix the = means "married," and the lines lead from it to the children of such marriage only.

Of his cousins and others of the family who may receive this book, the author asks that they will acknowledge its receipt, will inform him of the mistakes they find in it, and will send him photographs of themselves and of such others of their relatives as they may easily procure.

These he intends to use in illustrating his own copy and for this purpose, any old letters, bills, deeds or such papers as may contain family autographs or illustrate family history will be very acceptable.

He trusts they will make use of the blank leaves to keep up the family record, will keep him informed of changes in the family, and will send him newspapers, or slips from them, when anything appears in print.

He would assure them that pleasure in the work has quite compensated him for the labor of his self-imposed task and that compliance with his requests will repay their share of the expense he has met in putting the facts in shape to reach them.

EMMERTONS

IN

THE NAME IN ENGLAND.

THE surname in its earliest form, de Emberton, is evidently territorial. There are two towns called Emberton in England, one in Yorkshire, of which I know nothing more, and one in northern Buckinghamshire, in the hundred and deanery of Newport-Pagnell. Of the latter we are told that "at the distribution of lands, after the battle of Hastings, Ambritone (said to be a contraction of St. Ambrose-town) fell to Judith, niece of William the Conqueror, Countess of Huntingdon and widow of the Saxon Earl Waltheof; but the part now called Emberton fell to the share of the Bishop of Constance."

Paganus de Emberton held one knight's fee as tenant of the Paganells in 1168. One of the same name, called of Tykford Priory, Bucks, is mentioned in Dugdale's "Monastikon" as witness to Geoffrey Paganell's charter in 1187.

William de Emberton, son of Paganus, succeeded him before 1219, and at that date Robert de Emberton was rector of Emberton church which had been founded by the family.

Nicholas de Emberton was "capellanus" of Lavendon, a neighboring village, in 1262, and Geoffrey Markham de Emberton was presented rector to Okeney cum Petsoe, a neighboring town, in 1326, and succeeded in 1349 by William Markham et de Emberton.

I have been more interested in looking up the authorities about the Buckinghamshire Emberton, because a large proportion of the Emmertons whose wills I read in London were located between northern Bucks and the Thames, and many of the earlier ones were within a few miles of Emberton itself.¹

The variations of the village name are not without interest. We have seen that it, or territory near and perhaps including it, was once called Ambritone; that it gave a surname to the feudatory knight Paganus in 1168, and that the family name remained unchanged for nearly two centuries. I have two maps of Buckinghamshire, one dated 1610 "Performed by Iohn Speed" and the other of 1695 "By Robert Morden," in which the name is spelled Emmerton. My Camden's "Brittania," ed. 1701, gives Emerton and now, for I do not know how long, the former Emberton has been restored.

It is a very quiet little hamlet. To the right, as one enters from Olney, the rectory and two or three better class houses lie behind their ivy-clad walls, leaving the stranger rather to infer than enjoy such beauty as they may possess; in the centre the parting of the ways leaves space for a clock-tower commemorating some departed priest; to the right, again, a narrow way leads to the well-walled church-yard and the substantial stone church whence recent restoration has removed nearly every trace of age — at least of age's dilapidation —; to the left, beyond the clock tower and the sunny village inn, the road forks again and, in a moment, one is out among the well-tilled but houseless fields of rural England.

Some extracts from my English notes will serve to show how the Emmertons for two or three centuries have filled many positions from pauper to country-squire, (whose broad acres seem however to have been found in his London till,) from country cobbler to college-don.

I have retained the spelling of the surname as found.

Joan Emmerton, daughter of Robert, was 4th wife of Robert Sitsilt, ancestor eight times removed of Thomas Cecil, Earl Exeter. Their son, Stigand, was killed, sine prole, temp' Edw'd II,² at the siege of Strivelin in Scotland.³

1567. (Huick, 319.⁴) Robert Emerton, carpenter, of Stepney, Middlesex, mentions wife Johanne and daughters Mary and Margaret. Witness, Thomas Pickerynge. Thomas Sotton, constable.

1597. The records of the Archdeaconry of St. Albans contain the will of Robert Emerton, shoemaker, of Grasborrow, perhaps Granboro, Bucks. He had wife Margaret, sons William, Thomas, Richard and Benedict, a dau' Alyce. The wife and son William are to be executors, "brother Thomas Montigue and James Emerton overseers."

1603. (Huick 288, Commissary Court.) Thomas Emerton of Chancery Lane, St. Dunstan's in the East, London, makes his will on the second of November and, except "my best hatt, whereof there is IV^s to be paid for it, unto my younger brother," leaves all to wife Dorothy. On the 4th of the same month Dorothy's will gives XX^{lb} to Margery wife of Richard Norman and, among others, remembers Jane Smallwood who witnesses Thomas's will. Apparently the settlement of the estate of a childless couple.

1613. Amy Emerton, wife of Joseph and dau' of Mr. John Allen, late minister of the same church, gave a clock to the parish-church at Whaddon, Bucks.⁵

1625. Among the dusty parchments of the Rolls Court in London I found a roll recording a suit-at-law between Sir William Compton and others and William Emerton and others. The case was tried at Peterfield, Southampton, before Sir Richard Norton and was, apparently, an attempt to recover lands held by Compton and others as security for money lent Nicholas Pescodd, gentleman, of Okeanger, Southampton, the father of Emerton's wife Mabel.⁶

In Hotten's "The original Lists of Persons of Quality ; Emigrants ; Religious Exiles ; Political Rebels ; Serving-men sold for a term of years ; Apprentices ; Children stolen ; Maidens pressed ; and others who went from Great Britain to the Americas. Plantations 1600-1700." London, 1874, p. 105, in a list, dated "vj^o Julij 1635," of passengers "In the Paule of London Leonard Betts M^r bound to Virginea per Certificate from the minister at Gravesend of their Conformitie to the Church of England" occurs "Ann Emmerton, 20."

1638. Arthur Emerton, "lately dwelling beyond seas," owed Walter Borne and his wife Joanna to whom a commission of administration was issued.

⁵ Lipscombe's "Buckinghamshire."

⁶ A letter in "State Papers, Domestic 1633," p. 288, mentions Nicholas Pescod and others in connection with H. M. Prize-ship the "Black George."

1649. Nicholas Emerton, cordwainer, of Fenny Stratford, Bucks, 24th of Charles I.

1652. (Brent, 266.) Jeffery Emmerton, of Beachampton, Bucks, in his will signed 3 July, 1652, and admitted to probate 9 June, 1653, mentions wife Jane, sons Richard and Jeffery, dau' Sarah Kinge, and minor children William, Alce, Robert and Jane, witnesses William and Elizabeth Baldwin. The widow Jane, in her will (Alchin, 481) signed 30 Aug., 1653, and admitted to probate 19 April, 1654, mentions all the children and gives to Robert "the joynded bedstead in the house at Whaddon," and to Jane "all those four acres of free-land or ley ground in the fields of Whaddon." She speaks of her brother William Bauldwyn of Hanslope. Witnesses, Hugh Underwood and Richard Emerton. This is one of the wills where the single and double "m" are used indifferently in the surname.

William Bawdyn, of Bechampton, Bucks, blacksmith, died 8 Oct., 1600. A brass in the parish church, of which Alexander Cromleholme was rector in 1798, tells us "Here lieth the body of Ales Baldwyn dau' of William Mathew of Calverton Esq', the wife of George Baldwyn by whom she had issue two sons and two daughters viz.: William, George, Jane and Isabell, and died in childbed aged 30. 21 Feb. 1611."⁷

1652. (Bowyer, 105.) John Emerton, of the "parish of Thomas'es, Southwark, Surrey, in his will signed 7 May, "third yeare of the keepers of the liberty of England," and admitted to probate 11 May, 1652, mentions brothers Thomas and William, and sisters Anne Heyward and Jone Hodges. He makes his wife Israell sole executrix and residuary legatee. Overseers, William Jackson and Robert Smith. Witnesses, Edmund Millman, Richard Smart and William Jackson.

1654. (Aylett, 42.) Michael Emmerton, gardiner, of Battersey, Surrey, in his will of that year, mentions wife Anne, executrix; daughter Phillipe Canham (apparently living with her father); daughter Elizabeth Lambe, wife of Richard, of Battersey, gardiner, and her four children. Overseers, Henry Berry, yeoman, and Thomas Saunders, gardiner.

1656. (Ruthven, 29.) William Emerton, yeoman, of Heath, vulgo, Heath and Reach, in the parish of Loughton Buzzard, Bedfordshire, in his will written 5 Aug., 1656, "(god sodainely after prevented it by death)" and admitted to probate next January, mentions wife Elizabeth, daughter Elizabeth and grand-daughter Elizabeth Bellowe. Son William sole and whole executor.

1656. In the Journal of the House of Lords, Vol. VII, p. 500, 7 March, 1656, appears a resolution "that the Serjeant at Arms attending this house do distribute the monies collected on the Day of public humiliation in this house on Friday sevensnight among the persons under-named, the sum amounting to 10 pounds and two shillings, viz., Duncan Manton, widow Lewis, Mrs. Pinckney, widow Young, Joane Purcas, widow, Sarah Scott, William Emerton, old Cornelius, widow Conway, widow Cardell, Edmond Cooper.

1657. (Wotton, 110.) Peter Emerton, husbandman, Castor, Northamptonshire (a nuncupative will). Brother-in-law Matthew Gregory. Dorothy Hales, whom he had intended to marry, sole executrix. Edmund Spinckes Clark and minister.

1658. (Wotton, 459.) Richard Emertone, husbandman of Soulbery, Bucks, in his will signed 13 April, and admitted to probate 10 Sept., 1658, makes his wife

Susan executrix and residuary legatee; gives to his son Thomas "three halfe acres which I bought in the parish of Stoke-Hammon;" to his son William £60, and calls William and a dau' Elizabeth minors. In the acc't of administration all the children are called minors. A Thomas Emerton appears among the witnesses. Richard speaks of "reparation to the house and mounds as I have ingaged myself by bargaine to doe at Stake Andell."

1659. (Pell, 249.) James Embarton, blacksmith, of Putney, Surrey, gives to his son James "all my workein toules as belongs to my trayd and after my deceace and my missis my sonne to have all as we shall leave behind us and my sonne to paye unto my daughter Neomy Fisher." Among witnesses are James Embarton and John and Richard Embearton, but all sign with their mark, and the variation in the spelling must be ascribed to the fancy of the clerk.

In Lyson's "Environs of London," Vol. I, p. 305, in an account of parish expenses at Putney during the plague of 1665, may be found "Paid to James Emberton when he shut up Robert Combes, £0. 0. 6."

1676. (Comm' Court.) Margareta Emerton, spinster, of St. Giles in the Fields, in her will signed 20 Sept., and admitted to probate 2 Jan., 1676, desires to be buried at St. Olave's, Southwark, Surrey; mentions brother Thomas and his son's children; cousin Philip Goffe and his children; sister Alice Webb; cosin Ellen Browne; Richard Bellingham, cousin Joane Bellingham and her two dau's; cousin Francis Emerton; Mr. Farandine "the minister I have usually heard;" cousins James and Benjamin Fisher; cousen Frances Goff and John Colly, carpenter, of St. Giles in the Fields, sole exec'r.

In Bohn's edition of Evelyn's "Diary and Correspondence," Vol. II, p. 200, may be found under date "7 Dec., 1684," "I went to the Tower, and visited the Earl of Danby, the late Lord High Treasurer, who had been imprisoned four years :— Here I saluted the Lord Dumblaine's wife, who before had been married to Emerton, and about whom there was that scandalous business before the delegates." In a foot-note: "Peregrine, Viscount Dumblaine, youngest son of Earl of Danby, and afterwards inheritor of his title and estate."

Now Peregrine Osborne, Viscount Dumblaine, was a direct descendant of that venturous London apprentice who saved the life of his master's daughter and his own future wife by plunging after her into the Thames, rushing madly through the arches of old London Bridge, and was, himself, in after years, that Lord Carmarthen, enthusiastic yachtsman and roisterer, to whose congenial care William III consigned his guest, Peter the Great.

In the British Museum I found two documents which throw some light on this matter.

A pamphlet entitled "Mr. Emmerton's cause, concerning his alleged marriage with Bridget Hide, now before the delegates, stated and unfolded, London, 1682," and among the Harleian Manuscripts a tract, "Mr. Emmerton's marriage with Mrs. Bridget Hyde considered—in a letter to one of the Commissioners Delegates in that cause, etc., London 1682."

The pamphlet discussed the subject from its religious side, the inviolability of marriage, etc.; and the manuscript was a bit of very special pleading, intended apparently to bring some recalcitrant Delegate into harmony with the "scandalous proceedings" aforesaid. They are very unsatisfactory to the historian, or at least to the genealogist, from the assumption of their writers that the reader was familiar with all the detail of a case so recently the talk of the town.

Supplying from County Histories, from Burke's Peerage and such sources, certain facts omitted by the London pamphleteers, the story is something like this.

Once upon a time, near the middle of the 17th century and somewhere in rural England, though not far from London, an Emmerton had married a daughter of John Whitechurch of Walton, near Aysbury, in Buckinghamshire, and had children. Thomas Hide, born about 1594 and Sheriff of Hertfordshire in the 3rd year of the reign of Charles I (say about 1627), was an intimate friend of the family. Whether this intimacy had gone too far, as was indeed alleged during the trial and the testimony rejected, does not appear, but "out of the particular respect he bore old Mr. E.," Hide proposed to leave his property (his heiress was said to be worth £100,000) to the Emmerton family.

Mrs. Emmerton, however, persuaded him to marry her sister Maria Whitechurch, and from this union came but one child, a daughter Bridget.

—— Emmerton, Junior (there is no hint of his Christian name), thinking there were 100,000 good reasons for the step, persuaded his cousin Bridget, who "had not the age to be supposed to have natural appetite to lead her," to a secret marriage.

They were married "in a Cottage, from home, by a foreign Clerk" (she was a dissenter, and, from this, probably a Catholic) in the presence of Messrs. Brandlyn, whom the hostile Commissioner-delegate calls "a slippery Eele," "a very ill man," one Edlin, (of whom more anon) who is not considered an honest man by the same authority, and Sarah Emmerton. When the ex-sheriff, then Sir Thomas Hyde, Baronet, had been dead some nine years ("Mansit desiderium a die xviii Maii, Anno par-tus Virginei CIC, IOC, LXV, ætatis suæ LXXI")^s, his widow, "before Bridget was of marriageable age, was about to marry Sir Robert Viner who was about to enter upon his mayoralty." Sir Robert was Mayor of London in 1674, and this is our first definite date.

It was asserted that Sir Robert knew nothing of Bridget's marriage with Emmerton, but that Bridget's mother connived at it and provided her own younger sister for her daughter's maid.

It is not clear where and how the young people lived, although the marriage is declared unconsummated in 1682, but there was free social intercourse, for even the servants noticed that Bridget addressed her husband's sister as "sister Sarah Emmerton" commonly.

It does not appear just why or when these schemes began to "gang agley," but after Lady Viner's death, Sir Robert brings suit to test the question of marriage, and Bridget declares before Sir Robert Wyseman "a great and settled aversion for Mr. Emerton."

At King's Bench "the proofs were so strong for the plaintiff Emerton, that the jury brought in their verdict without going from the bar."

The fact of the marriage being established, an attempt was made to annul it.

There are accusations of forgery and bribery on the one side, and Sir Robert is charged with a willingness to accept pecuniary consolation when he thought the case going against him. However this may be, by some manipulation of the last court of appeal, of whose nature Evelyn's word "scandalous" gives me my only hint, the marriage was set aside and Bridget Hyde became in time

^s Clutterbuck.

Duchess of Leeds, and one of her daughters married a Duke of Beaufort, and 2^{ndly} an Earl of Dundonald.

Bridget's first child, a son, was born in 1691, and she died 8 M'ch, 1733-4.

It seems that Emmerton married early and had a considerable fortune of his own.

Sir Robert Viner is that Lord Mayor from whose over-familiar convivialities at Guildhall King Charles II attempted to slip away and, when pursued and overtaken before he could reach his coach, answered his tipsy host's, "Sir you shall stay and take t'other bottle" with "He that's drunk is as great as a king."⁹

Edlin. In a contemporary history of the trial of the regicides (so called) London, 1660, during the trial of Major-General Thomas Harrison, "pretended judge of his late Sacred Majesty," one Henry Edlin was offered as a juror and challenged by Harrison. Though afterwards accepted by the prisoner, he was set aside by the Court.

"On a marble tablet, in the Church of St. Mary's, Berkhamsted, these arms and inscription. In a lozenge, Ermine, a fess vairy, Or and Gules.

Here, underneath, rest the remains of Mr. John Edlin and Mrs. Sarah Emmerton, to whose worthy memory this monument is dedicated by the last of the family Mrs. Mary Edlin.

John Edlin ob' 29 Nov., 1685, æt. 73. Sarah Emmerton ob' 9 September, 1705, æt. 59. Mary Edlin d' 11 Feb', 1730, æt. 82."

There seems nothing in these dates to conflict with the idea that these persons may be the "Edlin" and "sister Sarah" of the trial, and that Mary Edlin may be sister Mary (Emmerton) Edlin of the following wills.¹⁰

⁹ Spectator, 462.

¹⁰ Clutterbuck's "Hertfordshire," Vol. I, p. 320.

1702. (Hern, 175.) Richard Emerton, Gentleman, London, in his will signed 17 July, 1696, and admitted to probate 11 Nov., 1702, makes his dear and loving wife Susan, sole executrix ; mentions sons Richard, John and Samuel, and dau' Mary. The children get but one shilling each on account of former advances. This will is signed Emarton in the copy at Somerset House.

1702. (Young, 79.) Susanna Emarton, in her will made in London, 8 Feb., 1702, mentions her sons Richard, Samuel and John, the last, sole executor ; nephew John and niece Esther Johnson ; grand-children the Modokes ; sister How ; kinsman John Clarke, and daughter-in-law Sarah, wife of John, to whom she gives a small diamond ring.

A codicil was made at Makry : witnesses John and Ann Dollinge. When the will is admitted to probate 7 April, 1711, it appears that she had died at Stony Stratford.

1703. (Commissary Register.) Francis Emerton, citizen and baker, of London, in his will signed 4 March, 1700, and admitted to probate 4 Feb., 1703, makes his wife, Judith, sole exec'x. He mentions "my field, four acres formerly part of Cronches, parish of Barking, Essex," bequeathed by his father Francis, of Abrey Hatch (prob. Alborough Hatch), in a will dated 4 Sept., 1673, "after the death of my mother Frances, who is since dead." No children are mentioned but "my wife's sister Dorothy Draper and my own sister Elizabeth Pye."

1710. In "Lord's Journals," Vol. XIX, p. 144, is recorded "An act for vesting the freehold and copyhold estate, late of William Emerton, Esq., deceased, in the parish of Chevening, Kent, in Trustees, to be sold, for the better support of his widow and the advancement of his two daughters.

William Emmerton, Esquire, of the Temple, married in 1691 Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Beale who was of a merchant's family in London, a Baronet in 1660, and Sheriff of Kent in 1665.

Sir John Beale, of Farningham, Kent, left two daughters and coheiresses; Jane, who married Sir George Hanger, and Elizabeth. By Elizabeth, William acquired Chipstead House, Chevening, Kent, which he tore down and rebuilt, and Maidstone, the manor of Chillington, which he sold. He died in 1709.

From Clutterbuck I learn that William Emmerton, Esq., left, by a will, £2. 8. to the poor of Aldbury parish, to whom Sir Thomas Hyde gave £120. 0. 0. William Emmerton is mentioned as a patron of a church at Potterells, Herts.

1716. (Whitfield, 31.) Thomas Emmerton, Gentleman, of Norcott Hill, parish of Barkhamsted St. Mary, alias North Church, Herts, in his will signed 27 Oct., 1716, and admitted to probate 14 Feb., 1716, mentions "cousin Elizabeth Russell, eldest daughter of my brother William, her now husband Gerrard Russell; cousin Sarah Emmerton, youngest daughter of my brother William; cousins Nicholas and Daniel Westcomb and William Bateman, all three sons of my sister Sarah Bateman; my sister Esther Janson, her son Bryan, her daughter Brumwich, her daughter Celena Janson; my sister Mary Edlin; my kinsman George Thornton of Wingrave, Bucks; my cousin Cockayne; my cousin Esther Bradley, daughter of my sister Esther Janson; and my Lieutenant John Turner of Clerkenwell Close." He leaves £5 each to twenty poor preachers, mostly dissenters, and as much more to twenty others by name.

1721. (Marlboro, 70.) Elizabeth Emerton, widow, St. Martins in the Fields, London, in her will signed 29 Dec., 1721, admitted to probate 21 April, 1722, mentions brother John ; sister Hester Ironson, widow ; and money in trust for the separate use of her daughter Russell — Russell's husband to have no claim.

1725. (Plymouth, 22-6.) Richard Emerton, Gentleman, Macbrey parish, Wheathampstead, Hertfordshire, in his will signed 16 July, 1721, and admitted to probate 9 Feb., 1725, mentions Elizabeth Dolling, daughter of my tenant John and my faithful servant Mary Beech.

He makes his loving nephew Richard, of the parish of St. Michaels, Basishaw, merchant, son of my late brother John, citizen and grocer of London, residuary legatee and sole executor. Witnesses, John Dolling, John and Thomas Beech.

I suppose there is little doubt that the Macbrey of this will is the same as the Makry of the mother's, Susanna's, codicil. It is sometimes Makery-end. Basishaw is Basing-hall street, near Guildhall.

1727. (Farrant, 163.) Rebecca Emerton, widow, Thornby, Northamptonshire, in her will signed 30 June, 1726, admitted to probate 6 July, 1727, mentions husband Richard ; my son, John Rumbold, £100. 0. 0. ; niece, Sarah Pick, my best diamond ring.

In the return to Parliament, 1874, of all the landowners of England and Wales, Elizabeth Emerton, of Thornby, Northamptonshire, with her one acre, is the only Emerton to be found.

1745. (Seymour, 221.) John Emmerton, Esquire, of Thrumpton, Nottinghamshire, in his will signed 10 July, 1745, and admitted to probate 23 Aug., 1745, mentions "my niece Mrs. Jobson of London, widow ; niece Celena Monk wife of Ambrose Monk of Coventry, gentleman ; niece Esther Bradley widow and relict of the late Robins Bradley of Long Birekby, Northamptonshire, attorney-at-law, and her only daughter Sarah ; Sarah Green daughter of my late niece Sarah Hind and widow of — Green, Mercer, of Stony Stratford, Bucks; kinsman John Brumwich of Sutton Casfield, Warwickshire, gentleman, his brother Edmund, attorney, and sister Mary Townsend, widow; kinsman Richard Emmerton now or late of Whethampstead, Hertfordshire; niece Sarah youngest daughter of my late brother William and now wife of ——— Pordage minister near Hanover Square, Middlesex; the only daughter of my late nephew Daniel Weseomb of London, a minor, under 21 years; my loving kinsman William Bateman of Great Ealing, Middlesex, only son of my nephew the late William Bateman of Pinner, Middlesex; nephew William Westcomb, Brewer, of Market street, Hertfordshire, and his youngest son John Emmerton Westcomb; honored friends George Gregory of Nottingham and John King of Bovenden, Herts; George Young now or late of County Clare, Ireland, and formerly my servant there; Mr. Anthony Hoyle, parish of St. George the Martyr, on account of our long acquaintance and friendship; the poor of Chesham and Whaddon, Bucks; farm at Nash, parish Whaddon, Bucks, my manor or Lordship of Thrumpton and my cottage at Gotham and my part of Gotham Wood to John Emmerton Westcomb aforesaid, he to relinquish the surname Westcomb; Aldbury, Herts, the place of my nativity; to be buried in the south corner of the chancel at Thrumpton, on the right hand of the communion-table, within the rails, but desire no funeral sermon.”

This is a very brief extract of a very long will. The outside bequests are neither few nor small, but the greater part of the will is taken up by a repeated formula intended to secure the descent of his principal landed-property and his name to some one of his nephews who should assume it.

Throsby's Thoroton's "History of Nottinghamshire," 1790, says, under the head of "Thrumpton, Elizabeth, widow of Gervas Pigot, sold to John Emmerton of the Middle Temple, London, Esq., and he, by will to John Emmerton Wescomb Emmerton (youngest son of his nephew William Wescomb) and he purchased in 1766 the freehold late Chamberlain's in Thrumpton, 1200 acres in all. He married a Norwood who died 7 July, 1780, s. p."

Wright's "History of Essex," Vol. II, p. 709, says that "Nicholas Westcomb, Esq' of Thrumpton, Notts (1836) had eldest son John Emmerton Westcomb who resides at Thrumpton. They owned Lofts or Loughts a mansion on Broad Street Green, Hundred of Thurstable, Essex."

An Essex gentleman, with whom I had a chat in the smoking room of the Windsor Hotel at Edinburgh (5 Sept., 1879), said he knew the Emmerton Westcomb family well (that is by reputation and family hearsay). He said, if I recollect aright, that the last of the line, a somewhat notorious hard-riding country-squire, left only daughters whose husbands (Birrons, he called them, connections of the poet's family) divided the property, one taking Thrumpton (as he persisted in calling it) and the other Langford in Essex, in the next parish to that of my informant, a retired tradesman whose name and address I did not get.

1727. (Farrant, 163.) Frances Emerton, widow, St. Giles without Cripple-gate, London, in her will signed 24 Dec., 1725, admitted to probate 8 Sept., 1727, mentions son John Curtis and daughter Elizabeth Curtis. She makes her brother Philip Goodall, corn-chandler, of same parish, executor.

1733. (Ockham, 31.) Ann Emberton, widow, St. Margaret's, Westminster, in her will signed 23 Jan., 6th

George II, and admitted to probate 21 Feb., 1733, mentions daughters Mary Lemmon and Elizabeth Emberton. She makes her son Anthony, to whom she gives her own picture, residuary legatee and sole executor, charging him to bring up "my son George and put him out Apprentice."

1735. (Derby, 29.) Thomas Emmerton, in a will that gives no hint of location or occupation, gives everything, except a black mare called Silver-tail for Mr. Jonas Sedgely of Staple Inn, to his wife Susannah, executrix. But the widow renounced the executorship, and Mr. William Willmor was made administrator under the will.

1755. Isaac Emmerton, Hertfordshire. Administration granted for his property.

1760. (Lynch, 11.) Richard Emerton, Light-horseman, of Chelsea Hospital, in his will signed 8 M'ch, 1759, and admitted to probate 22 Jan., 1760, mentions wife Jane and sons Charles and William. He makes son Richard, gunner in the Royal Artillery, sole executor.

1819. Isaac Emmerton wrote a "Treatise on the culture of Auricula, Polyanthus, Carnation." 2nd edition. London, 1819. 12mo.

1833. James Alexander Emerton, D. D., had then been teaching a long time at Radley Hall, now St. Peter's College, near Oxford. In July, 1834, he became curate at Hanwell, near London. He was noted for his interest in education and for a lengthy quarrel with the Bishop of London. 16 Feb'y, 1866, he published the last edition of his "Hanwell Rectory or the Use and Abuse of Episcopal Patronage."

1877. Wolseley Partridge Emerton, M. A., B. C. L. Christ-Church, Oxford, published "Analysis of Adam Smith's Wealth of Nations," an octavo "to meet the wants of Oxford Students."

It will be noticed that a certain connection is made evident from Jeffery, 1652, perhaps from Joseph, 1613, to John, 1745. Sometimes a suggestion from the transmission of lands, and sometimes the direct assertion of kinship.

The direct line of Richards, from father to son, seems fairly probable from the dates as given, while the family of the three brothers William, Thomas and John, and their sisters Westcomb—Bateman, Janson and Edlin, finds its father (or grandfather) in a younger son of Jeffery, 1652.

Clutterbuck's History of Hertfordshire furnishes these additional items, which are sadly ill-fitted with dates.

Richard Emerton's name appears on a roll of associates agreeing to support William of Orange against James. Richard Emerton, gentleman, of North Mymmes, was one of nine visitors to an Alms House at Chipping Barnet. Richard Emmerton, of Mackery-end, Herts, married Rachel, daughter of Sir John Garrard, and she was buried at Agmondesham, now Amersham, Bucks, 28 Feb., 1713.

Mr. Edward J. Sage, of London, England, gives me the following statement.

"A family of your own name lived a hundred years ago and more in the parish of Dagenham in my own county of Essex. I found many entries of the name (Emerton not Emmerton) in the Registers of Dagenham and other parish records. They held a good position in that parish and lived in a place between Romford and Dagenham, in a place called Eastbrook-end. But they have long since passed away and are forgotten."

The courtesy of Col. J. L. Chester, of London, offered me an opportunity to examine his copy of these registers. I regret that I took no copy of the entries, but recollect that our early family names, as John and Joseph, were of frequent occurrence in the later 17th and early 18th centuries, when the name disappears.

Dagenham is a village only about a dozen miles from the Bank of England, and is, I fancy, as likely as any to prove to be the last resting place of our ancestors in "Our Old Home."

THE NAME IN AMERICA.

THE name, which was Emmerton as early as the middle of the 14th century, has, like most names, undergone many changes, and may be found, in the English records, as Ambritone, Ematon, Emarton, Embarton, Embearton, Emberton, Emerton and Emertone. Two or more forms are sometimes used for one individual in the wills, or their copies, and indexes at Somerset House in London, the office of the Registrar-General.

In this country, the parish records of Chebacco (now Essex), a village of Ipswich in Essex County, Massachusetts (the earliest public record of the name in this country of which I have any knowledge); the Essex County, Mass., and Hancock County, Maine, Registry of Deeds; the parish records of the East and Tabernacle churches in Salem; the lists of Revolutionary soldiers at the State House in Boston; the few early family records remaining in the different branches, and the recollection of former usage among the older members of branches which have long dropped the second "m," all confirm my idea that our immigrant ancestor was Emmerton. So far as I know, my father's descendants and James H., of Lynn, are now the only members of the family using two m's in their name.

Nothing is known of our ancestry beyond Joseph, born about 1712, and John, born 23 June, 1714.

My father, 18 Ephraim, born 6 July, 1791, in a short family record written about 1855, says "It is supposed that the Father of John Emmerton was a Scotchman and came over as one of King George the Second's soldiers, and settled somewhere in the District of Maine or Chebacco where John was probably born." Now if 1 John was born in Chebacco, his birth antedates the reign of George II some thirteen years, and the proved migration from Chebacco to Maine may fairly be supposed the foundation of that part of the story. The Public Records, both of Deeds and Probate, are silent, and the earlier Church Records are lost.

Not doubting that Joseph and John of Chebacco, having so uncommon a surname and being so nearly of an age, were brothers, but unwilling to assume anything incapable of documentary proof, I will treat their descendants as separate tribes leaving it to my successors to establish their relationship.

Edward W. Emerton, machinist, of West Meriden, Connecticut, wrote me, 7 March, 1880, that he came twelve years before, from Birmingham, England, where he was born. That his father, an only son, was Francis, his grandfather John and, he thinks, his great-grandfather was Joseph. He has heard that some of his ancestors came to this country many years ago.

George Emmerton, who keeps a "feed-store" in Chicago, on the West-side, came "straight from London, England," about twelve years ago.

I have seen "Emorton, a post-office of Harford County, Maryland," spelled Emmerton.

THE TRIBE

THE TRIBE OF JOSEPH.

1 Joseph, born about 1712, drowned 27 Sept., 1782, married 22 Jan., 1734-5, Rebecca Gould, daughter of Henry, Jun., and Rebecca (Cole) and grand-daughter of Henry and Sarah (Ward), born 2 May, 1716.¹¹

They had baptized at Chebacco :

- 2 John, bap' 19 Oct., 1735; d. before 1746.
- 3 Joseph, bap' 17 July, 1737; d. 21 Oct., 1803; m. 16 April, 1761. Lucy Somes.
- 4 Henry, bap' 23 Sept., 1739.
- 5 Mary, bap' 14 M'ch. 1741-2.
- 6 Thomas, bap' 1 July, 1744; d. ab't 1832; m. 14 Jan., 1768, Lydia Burnham.
- 7 John, bap' 2 Nov., 1746; d. ab't 1774; m. 19 Oct., 1767, Molly Lufkin.
- 8 Sarah, bap' 26 Feb., 1748-9.
- 9 William, bap' 26 Jan., 1751-2; d. 30 Sept., 1774.
- 10 Rebecca, bap' 28 July, 1754.
- 11 Oliver, bap' 29 Jan., 1758-9; d. 3 Sept., 1804; m. 23 Oct., 1783, Eliz'th Andrews.

Joseph was Corporal in Captain Foster's company at the siege of Louisburg in 1745. His name will be found in Craft's Journal as published in the Historical Collections of the Essex Institute, Vol. VI, p. 181.

Benjamin Craft came from Connecticut and lived in Chebacco. In 1745 he enlisted and served till his death in 1746. He had married Mary Choate, of Chebacco, and in a letter dated "Boston, March ye 14, 1744-5," and addressed to Mr. Francis Choate (a great-grandfather of Rufus Choate) he writes "Remember me to your wife and Mrs. Emerton."

I have fancied that this rather special connection of names might give a hint as to Joseph's mother's family, and that she may be the Mrs. Emerton referred to.

In a letter from "Sheepscott River, March ye 29, 1745," he says that "Joseph Emerton" (and others) "remember their love to their wives and families."

"August ye 5th being Monday. This day Rec'd. of Mr. E. Groute sent by the Province five checkt linen shirts and four cotton and linen white shirts for the use of Capt. (Foster's) Company." Of these "Cor: Emmerton" got one.

The Chebacco Church Record tells us, "27 Sept., 1782, Mr. Joseph Emmerton in his 70th year and Aaron Burnham¹² in his 40th year are supposed to be drowned in the mouth of Chebacco River, as part of their boat and some of their clothes have been found; 8th November, J. E. was taken up at Bar Island and buried at Chebacco."

I found this story, somewhat travestied in its hundred years of oral transmission, among the descendants in New Hampshire.

3 Joseph (1 Joseph) baptized at Chebacco 17 July, 1737, died at Sedgwick, Me., 21 Oct., 1803, married 16 April, 1761, Lucy Somes, of Gloucester, who is said to have been early left an orphan and brought up in a family of Morgans, and who long survived him, dying in her 100th year at Sedgwick, Me.

They had :

12 Henry, bap' 19 Sept., 1762; m. Sarah Oakes of Kennebunk, Me.

13 Lucy, bap' 26 May, 1765; m. William Norris of Sedgwick, Me.

14 Sarah, m. Joseph Smith of Sedgwick, Me.

15 Hannah, m. James Bridges of Sedgwick, Me.

16 Joseph, b. 26 July, 1775; d. 1859; m. 12 Dec., 1798, Charity Trueworthy.

17 Mary (b. 2 Sept., 1780, ?); m. John Carter of Sedgwick, Me.

In the Records of Salem Workhouse I find "11 Oct., 1773, Settled with Joseph Emerton and found due him 4^d." This may have been 3 Joseph, or his father of Chebacco.

Some of Joseph's descendants in Maine are very confident that he lived for a time in Salem, but his name is not on the tax-lists from 1764 to 1784. If the tradition of others, that 16 Joseph was born in Dover, N. H., be admitted, Joseph probably came to Sedgwick, Maine, not very long before 1780, when the birth of his daughter Polly is recorded.

There is a story of Joseph's hunting up and utterly discomfiting a Blue-hill Indian, famous in all those parts for his skill in wrestling.

4 Henry (1 Joseph) baptized 23 Sept., 1739. In the Files at the State House, Boston, Vol. XXXVI, p. 216, in a roll of Captain Robbins's company, raised for the defence of Machias, occurs Henry Emmerton, 1778.

5 Mary (1 Joseph) baptized 14 M'ch, 1741-2. "Married 14 Dec., 1783, Daniel Rust and Mary Emmerton, both of Ipswich."¹³ This is very late for a marriage of 5 Mary, but I see no other way to explain it.

6 Thomas (1 Joseph) baptized, at Chebacco, 1 July, 1744, died at Hebron, N. H., about 1832, married 14 Jan., 1768, Lydia Burnham of Ipswich.¹⁴

They had :

18 Lydia, d. 25 April, 1774, "of fever in her sixth year."

19 William, said to have been lost at sea in 1803.

20 Thomas, b. 15 June, 1773; d. 12 Ap., 1848; m. Rachel Perkins¹⁴ of Hebron, N. H.

¹³ Church Records.

¹⁴ See appendix.

21 Lydia, m. Simeon Lovejoy and John Tucker of Thornton, N. H.

22 Eunice, m. 3 Jan., 1793. Robert Burnham.¹⁵

23 Joseph, m. Priscilla Lamphire and Sarah Andress.

24 John, b. 18 Oct., 1787; m. Sarah Merrill of Hebron, N. H.

Thomas was in early life a seafarer, and if the family tradition that he ate his bread in seventeen kingdoms may be credited, of something wider range than the ordinary fishing and coasting trade imply.

The same source supplies this story of Bunker Hill. He was wounded with "buck and ball" and, before going to the rear, added a zest to his "one shot more" by loading his gun with two of the buckshot taken from his wounded leg.

At camp, reached "wading over shoes in gore," he met a more insidious enemy in a pannikin of rum, a heavy draught of which caused a troublesome hemorrhage from his wounds, and this in turn called out an order from the surgeons restricting stimulants among his fellow sufferers.

However this may be, in the files at the State House in Boston are several pay-rolls of a company of coast-guards stationed at Gloucester in 1775-6.

The rolls cover three months each, and in that for the Spring of 1776, Corporal Thomas Emmerton appears. He is a private on the Summer roll and discharged 29 July, 1776.

5 Jan'y, 1792, Thomas Emerton and Lydia, his wife, sell to Second Parish, of Ipswich, a strip of land about two square rods on Meeting-House-Hill; this strip was about four and a half rods long by seven feet wide, and still remains open, a part of the green in front of the Meeting-House. Its northerly bound "by my other land" may indicate Thomas's residence.

Thomas is said to have shown a fair share of the stature and muscular development of which we get a hint in the sketch of his brother Joseph, and more exact detail in the "protection" of his brother Oliver.

A great-grand-daughter remembers seeing him return alone in a small boat from a fishing-trip, on the broad waters of the lake at Hebron, when he was well advanced in the eighties.

7 John (1 Joseph) baptized 2 Nov., 1746, died in 1774, married 19 Oct., 1767, Molly Lufkin of Ipswich.

They had :

25 Polly, bap' 11 Sept., 1768; d. 24 Aug., 1802; m. 14 M'ch, 1790, Luke Heard.

26 John, m. first, 25 Dec., 1791, Ruth Rust of Ipswich; second, 5 M'ch, 1795, Elizabeth Bartlett of Marblehead; third, 16 May, 1808, Anna Hoyt of Salem.

In Dr. Bentley's Parish List of Deaths of the East Church in Salem, as published in Hist. Coll., Essex Institute, Vol. XVI, p. 30, I find in the record of 1802, "May 29. Mary, widow of John Ward. Fever, 51 years, married at 18 years. Lived with her first husband, an Emerton, seven years, and with her second husband, Ward, five years. He died December, 1789. She a Lufkin from Ipswich. Had son and daughter by first marriage. Daughter married Luke Heard."

William Reed and Mary Emerton were published 1 Sept., 1782.

In the same Collections, Vol. V, p. 209, "John Ward, b. 10 Jan'y, 1738, married, secondly, 24 Oct., 1784, widow Molly Emmerton (whose maiden name was Lufkin)."

From this marriage came one son who was serving in the U. S. Navy about 1808-10, as his niece, by the half blood, Mrs. Ebenezer Soule, of Newburyport, informed me. John Emerton occurs in poll-list of East Church, Salem, in 1772.

11 Oliver (1 Joseph) baptized 29 Jan., 1758, died 3 Sept., 1804, married 23 Oct., 1783, Elizabeth Andrews of Ipswich.

They had :

27 Oliver, b. 30 Oct., 1783; d. at sea 1815; pub. 1 June, 1813, Harriet Sargent.

28 A dau., b. ab't Oct., 1784; d. 3 Oct., 1785, "twelve months, of a quinsy," Ch. Rec.

29 A child. b. Nov., 1790; d. 1 Dec., 1790.

30 Elizabeth, b. 27 Sept., 1792; d. 8 Nov. 1874; m. 1st, Payne Elwell; 2d. S. T. Bray.

Oliver was a mariner. His protection, dated 1798, calls him, "40 years; 6 feet, 1½ inches; reddish-colored hair, the end of fore-finger off left hand."

Elizabeth Andrews' mother was a Burnham, and her grandson, Oliver S., thinks his mother was the last Emmerton residing in Chebacco in the Burnham house at the (southern?) end of the causeway. She died at Gloucester, 12 May, 1835, aged 80.

In the files at the State House, Boston, Oliver Emmerton appears as private, in a company raised for coast defence, from September, 1775, to 18 November, 1776.

Oliver Emmerton, of Beverly, appears in a roll of Capt. Dodge's company, Col. Titcomb's regiment at "War-rin," R. I., 28 June, 1777, and Oliver Emmerton, of Ipswich, receives £8 in 1778 on roll of Robert Dodge's company, Samuel Johnson's regiment, Warner's brigade, on duty in Northern Department.

Essex County Deeds, B. 167, f. 135. 5 Dec., 1800, Oliver Emerton and wife Elizabeth sell to Daniel Andrews, schoolmaster, a bit of island-upland bounded north by the road from Ipswich to Gloucester, which he had acquired by inheritance, but as the surrounding "marsh" is in the hands of Burnhams, it probably came to him through his wife.

12 Henry (3 Joseph, 1 Joseph) baptized at Chebacco 19 Sept., 1762, married Sarah Oakes, of Kennebunk,

Me., and perhaps went to Sedgwick, Me., later than his father. He spent much of his life at sea. They had, besides a Sally or Mary, who married either James Gray or — Colby, in either case, of Deer Isle, 31 Henry II., b. 16 May, 1790; d. 8 January, 1855; m. Joan Gray.

13 Lucy (3 Joseph, 1 Joseph) baptized at Chebaeco 26 May, 1765, married William Norris at Sedgwick, Maine, and had :

Lucy Norris, b. 29 March, 1787; m. Levi Franks.
 Sarah Norris, b. 12 January, 1789; m. Joseph Daley.
 William Norris, b. 10 January, 1791; m. Harriet Foster.
 Mary Emerton Norris, b. 2 October, 1794; m. Thomas Carter.
 George Norris, b. 7 January, 1796; unmarried.
 Joseph Emerton Norris, b. 16 March, 1798; m. Patience Carter.
 Nabby Somes Norris, b. 14 March, 1801; m. Sands Candage.
 Hannah Emerton Norris, b. 30 April, 1804; m. Philip Pevear.
 Clarissa Norris, b. 21 April, 1807; m. ——— Demeritt.
 Thomas Norris, b. 5 June, 1809; unmarried.

14 Sarah (3 Joseph, 1 Joseph) married Joseph Smith of Sedgwick, Maine.

They had :

Sally Smith, b. 2 September, 1786.
 William Smith, b. 6 October, 1790.
 Joshua Smith, b. 5 October, 1792.
 Hannah Smith, b. 4 January, 1795.
 Rebecca Smith, b. 28 January, 1797.
 Mary Smith, m. ——— Milliken (?).
 Joseph Smith, unmarried (?).

The Chebaeco Records give the marriage 4 Dec., 1785, of Joseph Smith and Rebecca Emmerton, both of Ipswich. Some of this name still live near Cape Rosier in Brooksville, Maine.

15 Hannah (3 Joseph, 1 Joseph) died 8 July, 1803; married James Bridges of Sedgwick, Maine, and had Morris Somes Bridges, born 9 Jan., 1801, who married Hannah York and died childless.

16 Joseph (3 Joseph, 1 Joseph) born (in Dover, N. H.,?) 26 July, 1775, died at Buck's Mills, Me., in 1859, married 12 Dec., 1798, Charity Trueworthy, of Union River.

They had :

- 32 Drusilla, b. 7 Sept., 1799, at Bluehill; m. Nathan Eldridge.
- 33 Sarah, b. 2 April, 1801, at Bluehill; m. 17 April, 1834, Harry Lowell.
- 34 Lee, b. 18 March, 1803, at Bluehill; d. 10 Dec., 1855, at Bucksport, Me.
- 35 Mehitable, b. 8 Feb., 1805, at Bluehill; m. 18 Oct., 1826, John Condon.
- 36 Benson, b. 23 April, 1807, at Sedgwick; m. 23 Dec., 1836, Sarah Ann Brown.
- 37 Daniel, b. 15 May, 1809; d. 12 June, 1809.
- 38 Daniel M., b. 18 Aug., 1810, at Bluehill; m. 26 June, 1841, Eliza Brown.
- 39 Susan M., b. 2 Jan., 1813, at Bluehill; m. 28 Oct., 1832, Nathan Dexter.
- 40 Amasa S., b. 25 Sept., 1816, at Stetson; m. 12 June, 1844, Mary Ann Jackson.
- 41 James Edward, b. 24 June, 1819, at Bucksport; m. Nov., 1840, Maria Rand.
- 42 Joseph Henry, b. 28 Oct., 1822, at Bucksport; m. 10 Oct., 1852, Hannah T. White.
- 43 Mary A., b. ab't Aug., 1824, at Bucksport; m. Dec., 1846, Nathan Stover.
- 44 George N., b. Nov., 1826, at Bucksport; m. 20 Nov., 1856, Caroline Perry.

Joseph was a farmer and lived in the various towns of Hancock County, Maine, in which his children were born, and in Stetson, in Penobscot County.

4 July, 1801. He sold wall-pew No. 10, between John Carter and Phinehas Osgood, in the meeting-house at Bluehill.¹⁶

17 Mary (3 Joseph, 1 Joseph) born in Sedgwick, Me., 2 Sept., 1780; married John Carter.

They had :

- Patience Carter, b. 17 October, 1798; m. Joseph Norris.
- John Carter, b. 2 April, 1800; m. Mary Eaton.
- Thomas Carter, b. 17 April, 1802; m. Lavina Carter.
- Joseph Carter, b. 26 July, 1804; lost at sea, 1824.
- Israel Carter, b. 10 July, 1806; lost at sea, 1824.
- Job Carter, b. 4 March, 1810; m. Sabrina Kane and d. 1881.
- Mary Carter, b. 11 August, 1813; m. Leonard Franks.
- Luey Carter, b. 26 June, 1816.

20 Thomas (6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born 15 June, 1773; died 12 April, 1848, at Columbia, N. H.; married ¹⁶ Hancock County Records, B. 8, p. 491.

Rachel Perkins, born May, 1782, at Hebron; died 10 May, 1866, at Columbia, N. H.

Their children were :

- 45 Ira, b. 24 Sept., 1800, in Hebron, N. H.; m. Susan Kidder.
- 46 Ruth, b. 21 July, 1802; d. in Groton; m. 1821 Robert S. McClure in Groton.
- 47 Thomas Jefferson, b. 15 Mar., 1805; m. Rebecca Rogers of Northfield, N. H.
- 48 Harvy, b. 25 July, 1808; d. 5 Sept., '50; m. Susan Clement (Columbia, N. H. ?).
- 49 Jacob Perkins, b. 29 Apr., 1811; d. 13 Sept., '63; m. Susan Graves, Moscow, Me.
- 50 Joseph Warren, b. 2 May, 1815; m. Elvira Fairman.
- 51 Atlanta, b. 19 Feb., 1817; d. 10 June, 1844; m. Parker Ferson.

Rachel Perkins is said, by her son Ira, to have been a daughter of Jacob, of Hebron, N. H.

Thomas, mariner and fisherman in early life, settled down on the farm at Groton, N. H., which he gave up to his eldest son Ira on his marriage, and then moved with the rest of his family to Columbia, N. H.

23 Joseph (6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) married Priscilla Lamphire and Sarah Andress, daughter of Lilburn and Sarah (Hewes).

By Priscilla he had :

- 52 Joseph, b. 16 July, 1804; d. 19 May, 1866; m. Joanna Joy.
- 53 Dan L., b. 3 Apr., 1808; d. 7 Apr., 1870; m. 23 Jan., 1830, Fanny Brown.
- 54 Priscilla, b. 24 July, 1811; d. 25 Nov., 1831.

By Sarah he had :

- 55 John Andress, b. 27 Aug., 1812; m. 25 May, 1841, Zelestia Wilmot.
- 56 Sarah, b. 2 Dec., 1814; m. 2 Mar., 1834, Sylvester Pushee.

Joseph was noted for his extraordinary muscular strength and, when he pleased to exert it, activity. Somewhere about 1814 he went west, to Cohecton, N. Y., or its neighborhood, and, report says, had another family there.

24 John (6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born 18 Oct., 1787; married Sarah Merrill.

They had :

- 57 Roxana, b. 26 Nov., 1808; m. 29 June, 1836, Samuel Wilson of Boston.
- 58 Leonard, b. 2 Aug., 1810; m. 10 Dec., 1837, Thankful Gill.

- 59 Eliza, b. 5 Mar., 1813; m. 15 Dec., 1831, James Jones Trask.
 60 Eunice, b. 13 Apr., 1815; m. June, 1832, Albert Rust.
 61 Lucy Pierce, b. 16 Mar., 1817; m. 25 Sept., 1836, Solomon Newcomb.
 62 Daniel Page, b. 25 Oct., 1819; d. 12 Apr., 1856; m. Mary Dury.
 63 Timothy Osgood, b. 24 June, 1823.

Sarah Merrill, born 11 November, 1783, came with her parents from Massachusetts at the same time with the Emertons and was a domestic in the family of John's father. After the birth of two children they came down to Boston. Sarah died in Everett, Mass., 12 December, 1877.

25 Polly (7 John, 1 Joseph) baptized at First Church 11 Sept., 1768, married, 14 March, 1790, Luke Heard of Lancaster, and died 24 Aug., 1802.

In an account book of the East Church of Salem, I find, "4 March, 1802. Paid to Luke Heard $83.85 for 17 months "his service and for expence of candles" and on the 16th of September of the same year $35.33 cash "for services at singing."

In Dr. Bentley's Record of Deaths, as quoted above, "24 Aug., 1802. Mary, wife of Luke Heard. Dropsy, 33 years, married at 21. She was an Emerton. Her mother died in May last, and had married a Ward; one child, a son, left. Heard from Lancaster. He had been for many years infirm. Derby Street, between Daniels and Hardy Street."

It may well be doubted whether the "one child, a son," was Emerton, Ward or Heard, but the church-payments, quoted above, seem to refute the "He had been for many years infirm," which is a true copy of the record.

26 John (7 John, 1 Joseph) born about 1770; married, first, 25 Dec., 1791, Ruth Rust of Ipswich; second,

5 March, 1795, Elizabeth Bartlett of Marblehead; third,
16 May, 1808, Anna Hoyt of Salem.

By Ruth :

64 A son, b. 1 Dec., 1792; d. 1 Dec., 1792.

By Elizabeth :

65 John, b. 25 Dec., 1796; d. 29 Dec., 1864; m. 29 Mar., 1821, Almira Hoyt.

66 Elizabeth, bap. 5 Aug., 1798; m. Benjamin Chase.

67 Mary Ward, b. in 1799; d. 13 Oct., 1802.

68 Eunice Barr, b. 22 Nov., 1802; d. 18 June, 1881; m. in 1821 Ebenezer Soule.

69 William, b. (Aug., 1805?); d. at sea, in July, '34; m. 4 Apr., '34, Eliz. Wetherly.

70 Raymond, b. in July, 1806; d. 7 Sept., 1806.

Ruth (Rust) Emerton died at Chebacco 4 July, 1794,
"of consumption hopefully."

B. 162, f. 106, Essex County Records. 2 Feb., 1797.
Samuel Archer 4th and Susannah his wife sell to John Emmerton, baker, and wife Elizabeth land bounded east on Turner street, in Salem, which is still occupied by a bakery.

5 Aug., 1798. John Emmerton and his brother-in-law Henry Rust, adults, John and Eliza of the above
John and his wife Eliza, who was a Bartlett from Marblehead Farms, were baptized at the Episcopal Church in Salem.

8 Oct., 1802. East Church receives $16.00 from "Em-merton and Choat" for a pew in gallery.

13 Oct., 1802. In his record of the death of Mary,
Dr. Bentley locates the family on Turner below Derby street, but in 1806 says they live on the "lane below Derby between Becket and English going to the water."

John had accumulated some property from his bakery, etc., in Salem and was unlucky enough to invest in commerce just previous to the embargo and lost all. He moved to "Sandown" and Chester, N. H., and finally,
"just six months before the big fire," to Newburyport,
Mass., where he spent the rest of his life.

27 Oliver (11 Oliver, 1 Joseph) born 30 Oct. 1783, died at sea in 1815 (published) 1 June, 1813, to Harriet Sargent of Gloucester.

They had :

Robert Lowell, b. 30 Sept., 1844; d. 3 March, 1845.

Henry Washington Lowell, b. 4 April, 1846; m. 28 September, 1875, Ida Leach.

Sarah Elizabeth Lowell, b. 30 June, 1848; m. 24 June, 1872, Lorenzo Foster.

34 Lee (16 Joseph, 3 Joseph, 1 Joseph). At about eighteen, Lee was wounded while unloading hay. One tine of his fork entering under his chin came nearly through the skin just above the right eye. The external wound soon healed, but cerebral trouble was soon manifested and followed him along the dreary road, whose milestones are epilepsy, mania and dementia.

His name was probably Leander, but he appears on the records and was called Lee.

35 Mehitable (16 Joseph, 3 Joseph, 1 Joseph) born at Blue Hill, 8 February, 1805, married 18 October, 1826, John Condon, a farmer of Penobscot, Maine, born 103 Emma L., b. 14 Meh, 1842; m. 14 Nov., 1873, Geo. W. Patterson of Henniker.

104 John, b. 7 Dec., 1843; m. 1 Jan., 1873, M. Jennie Wheeler.

105 Asa Tenney, b. 4 April, 1850.

Ira is still living with his wife and son Asa on his little clearing in the woods of Wentworth, N. H. They seem as secluded and their life as rugged as if they were in the wilds of Montana, but they persist in their self-helpful independence. He is very deaf, but his clear answers to my written questions were of great help in arranging the earlier generations of his branch.

46 Ruth (20 Thomas, 6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born 21 July, 1802, in Hebron, N. H., m. 1821, Robert S. McClure of Groton, N. H.

Ruth Ann McClure, b. 19 March, 1830; m. 23 Feb., 1860, Samuel Blodget.

Samuel McClure, b. 3 Jan., 1834; lives in Yreka, Cal.

Andrew Jackson McClure, b. 21 Nov., 1835; m. Abbie C. Heath and H. A. Wheet.

Robert Manly McClure, b. 3 Jan., 1838; m. Nannie Douglas.

David McClure, b. 13 Dec., 1841; m. Christiana Cheney.

Mary McClure first married John Dow of Dorchester, N. H., on the 12 June, 1858. Jacob D. Sanborn is of Franklin, N. H. William Thomas McClure's first marriage was on 4 June, 1850, his second 24 June, 1855. He lives in Lawrence, Mass. The Blodgets live in Knoxville, Tenn. Robert M. McClure lives in Perry, Kansas. David McClure lives in Portland, Maine. Andrew J. McClure's first marriage took place 21 Nov., 1835, his second 21 March, 1865. He lives in Plymouth, N. H.

47 Thomas Jefferson (20 Thomas, 6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born 15 March, 1805, died 15 Jan., 1870, at Fort Winnebago, Wis., married Jan., 1833, Rebecca Rogers of Northfield, N. H.

Their children were :

106 Benjamin Jefferson, b. Jan., 1835, at Columbia, N. H.; m. Sarah Godwin.

107 Andrew Jackson, b. at Columbia, N. H., 1840; is married.

108 Lucy, b. at Columbia, August, 1838; m. Robert Cochran. Three children.

Thomas Jefferson moved from Columbia, N. H., to Fort Winnebago, Wis., where the sons now reside on their farms. Robert Cochran is a trader at Portage City, Wis., where the widow Rebecca also lives.

48 Harvy (20 Thomas, 6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born 25 July, 1808, in Groton, N. H., died 5 Sept., 1850, in Colebrook, N. H., married Susan Clement.

They had :

109 Maria, b. about 1844; d. Feb., 1870; m. about 1859, Stephen Richardson.

110 Melissa, b. about 1845; d. about 1857.

111 John, b. about 1848; d. about 1866.

49 Jacob Perkins (20 Thomas, 6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born in Groton, N. H., 29 April, 1811, died 13 Sept., 1863, in Moscow, Maine, where he married, in 1838, Susan Graves daughter of John and Mary (Dinsmore) born at Topsham, Maine, 18 Jan., 1810, and died at Moscow, 29 March, 1872, of heart-disease.

They had the first four at the Forks of the Kennebec, the others at Moscow.

112 Thomas, b. 7 April, 1839; m. Sept., 1867, Lizzie Parlin Bassett.

113 Susan, b. 5 Jan., 1841; living, 1881, at Lewiston, Maine.

117 Rachel, b. 17 May, 1851; d. 5 Feb., 1879; m. 26 Sept., 1874, Marcellus N. Gilbert.

118 Amos Warren, b. 8 Oct., 1853; d. at Moscow, 9 Sept., 1863.

119 Clara Atlanta, b. 24 March, 1857; living, 1881, at Lewiston, Maine.

Jacob Perkins was of medium height with deep blue eyes and curly black hair; at the time of his death he weighed about two hundred pounds.

After several years of lumbering, he cleared a farm near the Forks of the Kennebec, whence he moved to Moscow for the benefit of schools, etc.

His love of reading and acute observation repaired the defects of his early education, and his retentive memory abetted his social disposition in frequently entertaining his neighbors with story and song.

His appointment as justice of the peace and election as selectman are, perhaps, but slight proofs of the estimation in which he was held by the community in which he lived.

In September, 1863, his whole family was attacked with diphtheria, and within one week four died.

50 Joseph Warren (20 Thomas, 6 Thomas, 1 Joseph), Representative of General Court, born 2 May, 1815, died in 1860, and married 23 March, 1837, Elvira Fairman, born 10 May, 1815, and died 16 Jan., 1860.

They had :

120 Elson Warren, b. 27 Feb., 1840; d. 1 March, 1862.

121 Atlanta S., b. 18 Jan., 1843; d. 14 Aug., 1864; m. 26 Nov., 1861, L. B. Grout; 2 ch.

122 Abbie Jane, b. 12 July, 1846; m. 24 Oct., 1864, Henry E. Forristall.

123 Ruth Ann, 30 Nov., 1850; m. 7 March, 1867, Aaron M. Gould.

124 Joseph Fremont, b. 16 Aug., 1857; d. 10 June, 1858.

They married and lived and died in Columbia. The parents died within five hours of each other; he of consumption, she of lung fever. Elson W. followed in two years and Atlanta in a few years, both of consumption.

51 Atlanta (20 Thomas, 6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born in Groton, N. H., 19 Feb., 1817, died 10 June, 1844, married in Colebrook, N. H., Parker Ferson, son of Alexander and Abigail (Brown). Mr. Ferson was a farmer at St. Charles, Illinois, where he died some four or five years ago.

They had, born and died at St. Charles :

George E. Ferson, b. 29 June, 1840; d. 19 January, 1857.

Atlanta E. Ferson, b. 1 June, 1844; d. 10 February, 1845.

- 52 Joseph (23 Joseph, 6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born 16 July, 1804, died 19 May, 1866, married Joanna Joy, born in Boston in 1799; died June, 1874.

They had :

- 125 Joseph B., b. March, 1826; m. 14 May, 1848, Emily Littlefield.
 126 John L., b. 25 Dec., 1827; m. 1st. Martha J. Marston; 2nd, Elizabeth Manson.
 127 Frank, born in 1830; d. in 1860.
 128 Charlotte Ann (twin), b. in 1830; m. 2nd, Union Adams, of New York.
 129 Mary Augusta, b. about 1833; married —— Finney, of Orfordville.
 130 Frances Elizabeth, b. about 1835; m. twice, —— Finney and —— Mason.
 131 Charles Rufus, b. 1 Oct., 1836; m. 1st, Achsah J. Stickney; 2d, Eliz'th Irving.

Joseph was bound out to learn his trade, blacksmithing, in Malden, Mass. Becoming utterly discontented with his situation, he took French leave when sent out one day for firewood, and on his return, after some months or years, gathered an armful at the woodpile and brought it into the kitchen with "I've brought the wood, ma'm."

In early youth he visited his father in his Western home, walking at least on the way home. The story goes that a man starting for the East at the same time on horseback jeeringly offered to announce to Joseph's friends that he was coming. For once, at least, two legs were better than four and the laugh went against the horseman on his tardy arrival. Joseph was an early and outspoken Universalist gaining, on that score, some hard names from his more conservative cousins.

In his later years he was an ardent advocate of the temperance reform, speaking and writing cordially in its behalf.

- 53 Dan Lamphire (23 Joseph, 6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born 3 April, 1808, died 7 April, 1870, married 26 Jan., 1830, Fanny Brown, born 29 Oct., 1811, daughter of Chester and Phæbe.

The children of 53 Dan L. and Fanny (Brown) were :

132 Mary Jane, b. 5 Feb., 1832; m. 11 Nov., 1852, Ward M. Batchelder.

133 Matilda, b. 7 March, 1838; m. 13 Dec., 1853, Simon Lamphire.

134 Napoleon B., b. 6 Oct., 1811; m. 9 Nov., 1864, Maria Marston.

135 Jerome B., b. 7 Sept., 1845; m. 1 Jan., 1868, Mary J. Piper.

136 Lucien B., b. 2 May, 1851; m. Julia La Point.

Dan Lamphire learned his trade of his brother Joseph. His specialty was rather in the finer sorts of smithwork, as edge-tools and the like. The memory of his forks remains among the hills of Wentworth and West Rumney. In the latter place his four older children were born. Lucien was born in Lyme, on a little farm on the banks of the Connecticut. He likewise dealt in simples, even going so far as to adorn his signature with M. D.

55 John A. (23 Joseph, 6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born 27 Aug., 1812, married 25 May, 1841, Zelestia, daughter of Willard W. and Annette (Towle) Wilmot, of Thetford, Vermont.

They had :

137 Sarah Annette, b. 19 Feb., 1842; m. Chase Prescott.

138 Lucretia Abbie, b. 8 March, 1843; m. Albert Nye.

139 Edwin Carlos, b. 5 Feb., 1845; m. 28 Nov., 1867, Emma J. Jerrell.

140 George Henry, b. 8 July, 1847; m. 1 Jan., 1866, Laura E. Pixley.

141 Martha Jane, b. 6 Nov., 1849; m. 1st, H. H. Higgins; 2nd, Carlos Walbridge.

142 David Baldwin, b. 1 May, 1856.

143 Carroll Caleb, b. 21 June, 1860; d. in 1862.

John was a trader in his early days, but has been many years a farmer in Thetford, Vermont, and has recently bought a farm in the edge of Fairlee, near the lake of that name.

56 Sarah (23 Joseph, 6 Thomas, 1 Joseph) born 2 Dec., 1814, married 2 March, 1834, Sylvester Pushee, a farmer of Thetford, Vermont, and more recently of Lyme, N. H.

The children of 56 Sarah and Sylvester Pushee were :

George Lilbrun Pushee, b. 30 April, 1835; d. 1875.

Charles Sydney Pushee, b. 18 March, 1838.

Matilda M. Pushee, b. 1840.

Benjamin Chase Emerton is a shipmaster. When commanding the brig John C. Noyes from New York for Genoa, all the crew were attacked with small-pox, and during the forty-three days' passage Capt. Emerton and his first officer did most of the steering. In 1857, he commanded the ship George Peabody, and his eldest daughter, born on board, was buried at Acapulco, Mexico. In 1875, he commanded the barque William A. Holeomb, from which his son was lost overboard near San Francisco.

153 Mary W. (65 John, 26 John, 7 John, 1 Joseph) born in Newburyport 30 Sept., 1826; died there 4 June, 1854. She married 20 Mar., 1851, Orrin W. Clark.

- 12 John, b. 23 July, 1760.
- 13 Dorothy, b. 27 Dec., 1762; d. 27 April, 1783.

John was married at Chebacco, a village of Ipswich, now Essex, Essex County, Mass., owned covenant, 23 Oct., 1737, and had two children baptized there: John, 27 Nov., 1737, and William, 2 Sept., 1739. Mary was baptized 31 May, and Jeremiah, 17 April, 1743 at First Church in Salem. Not much time lost between birth and baptism in those days. Except Eunice all the others were baptized at the Tabernacle Church in Salem.

I have the original of an old bill as follows: "March 15, 1736-7, Rec'd of Moses Foster five shilens and 2^d pence for looking after your brother Joshua when seek at

A literal copy of John's family record runs as follows :

The record, unquestionably in one hand, seems to have been begun in December, 1748, and continued by separate entries to the end.

On the back of the leaf of an account book which carries this autograph family record, are charges dated from 1742 to 1747 against several well known Salem names for "lam's skings," "holing hay," "holing rocks for the mill and wheat mele to Sundris," etc.

This is the only record I have found of John's farmer life in Salem, if I except his sale, 5 July, 1765, of a four-year-old mouse-colored mare to Richard Derby.

He cultivated the lands of Judge Lynde on Castle Hill in South Salem. The only trace of farming the land near Castle Hill, which I have ever observed, the foundation of a small building near the bold ledge on the south-westerly side, had almost disappeared, in 1880, by enclosure and cultivation of a small patch nearly including it.

"At the first meeting of the Overseers of the Poor at the Workhouse the 11 Nov. 1771. Agreed with Mr. John Emerton to take care of the work-house and to be Master thereof and to allow him forty-six pounds 13 shillings and four pence per annum and to find him his Fire-wood, small-bear and light, his pay to commence 19 Sep. 1771."—Records Salem Workhouse.

This was the establishment of the Workhouse on Salem Common and this Workhouse was carried on for several years in addition to the Almshouse on Summer street, as, for instance, ten casks of rice are divided, six to Workhouse, and four to Almshouse, 12 May, 1777.

An interesting hint of the depreciation of the currency during the Revolution may be found in the Work House Records, 2 May, 1781, when, instead of the customary £40 or £60, John Emerton is voted an order for £10,000.

RECORDS OF EAST PARISH, SALEM, VOL. NO. 2.

11 Feb., 1778. The committee met at Mr. A. Brown's and agreed to appoint Mr. John Emerton to take care of the boys by sending the following directions.

TO MR. JOHN EMMERTON.

The committee having long observed much disorder in the "Galliree" by the boys and have been informed that you will undertake (being authorised) to keep them in order — You are hereby appointed for that purpose to take such method as you think best.

When nothing less will do you are desired to take any boys (being disorderly during the time of Divine Service) without fear or favor and carry them downe and set them on the Pulpit stairs, as we suppose that will effectually remedy those Disorders, for which service we agree in Behalf of the parish to give you twenty shilling per year or more if you think that not sufficient.

3 William (1 John) born and baptized at Chebacco, 2 Sept., 1739, was published 19 Sept., 1761, as about to marry Martha, daughter of William Silsbee²³ of Salem, born 1715, died 1783, and Joanna (Fowle) born 1713, died 25 Feb., 1793.

They were married. William went to sea (I think to the West Indies) and Martha lived with her father in the house still (1881) standing on Essex street, nearly opposite Pleasant street.

The young wife was sleeping "in the best chamber" with her younger sister Joanna (whose grand-daughter Mrs. James (Webb) Chaney of Salem, told me the story) when, one night, the pair were awakened by the crashing fall of the mirror to the floor. Martha exclaimed "there, something has happened to Emmerton!" William never came back, although history is silent upon the interesting point whether his demise and the destruction of the mirror were really coincident in time."²⁴

4 Mary (1 John) born 30 May, 1741, married Tobias Davis. In the record of baptisms at the Tabernacle Church is Tobias of Tobias and Marah Davis, 6 Nov., 1763.

6 Eunice (1 John) born 18 April, 1745, married 4 Jan., 1770, John Cloutman. She was admitted to the Tabernacle Church 21 July, 1770, and Abigail, daughter of John and Eunice Cloutman, baptized 10 Jan., 1773. Abigail, soon left motherless, was brought up by her aunt Davis and married James C. Tuttle.

In the early times families kept more closely than now to their own set of Christian names. The brothers and sisters of Eunice were given Foster names which "Eunice" is not. The name appears, too, among the New Hampshire Emertons. It may, some day, afford a clue to our missing maternal ancestor, the mother of 1 Joseph and 1 John.

man, daughter of John and Sarah, baptized at the Tabernacle Church 17 Sept., 1752, died 19 Jan., 1825. They had no children.

I find Ephraim's name on the Salem tax-lists in 1771, when, and for some years, he is taxed on the second list which I suppose to be nearly or quite equivalent to Ward 2 of our city.

Father told me that his uncle Ephraim, for whom he is named, had a commission as Lieutenant in our army, besieging Boston in 1775.

In the files, B. 14, p. 46, at the State House, Boston, Lieut. Ephraim Emerton draws £4 for pay from 25 May, to 31 July (inclusive), 1775, in Capt. Nathan Brown's Company of Col. John Mansfield's Regiment.

The Journal of Benjamin Crafts, son of that Benjamin whose Journal, kept during the Louisburg Expedition has been quoted, published in the Historical Collections of the Essex Institute, Vol. III, p. 51, mentions Lieut. Emerton as fellow member of Courts-martial on the 5th and 11th of August at or near Winter Hill, and attending divine service with him on 22 Oct., 1775.

B. IX, p. 29. At Dorchester, 18 April, 1776, a board of Survey, consisting of Capt. Billy Porter, president, Lieuts. Ephraim Emmerton and Thomas White, Ensigns Eliphalet Perley and Ezekiel Cooper, members, passes an inventory of the estate left in camp by "ajutant" Tarrant Putnam of the 27th Regiment, who died 16 April, 1776.

From papers in my possession it appears that Nathaniel Silsbee, father of Nathaniel, U. S. Senator, etc., had sold some rum and a negro man, 17 Sept., 1776, to John Dupuy and Nathaniel Preston of "Mole" in the West Indies.

Their receipts, with part payment on the rum, came into the hands of Elias Hasket Derby who puts them, 24 April, 1777, into the hands of Ephraim Emerton to collect. Mr. Derby says in his letter of instructions, "Capt Emerton the within receipts if it should be your bad fortune to get taken in the West Indies, i suppose you will be abel to keep." Judging from the regular needle-holes all around the folded paper, Capt. Emmerton organized safety by sewing the valuable receipts into his clothes.

B. 5, p. 120. Ephraim Emerton, captain of schooner Congress, four carriage guns,—men, Elias Hasket Derby, Nathan Goodale and John Gardner 3rd, apply for commission or Letter of Marque, 19 Dec., 1777.

B. 7, pp. 181–2. Ephraim Emerton, mariner, Joseph Chipman and Joseph Grafton apply for commission or Letter of Marque for Brig^t Saratoga, ten guns, thirty men belonging to Joseph Grafton, 5 Oct., 1779.

Rev. J. B. Felt, Annals of Salem, second ed., Vol. II, p. 275, in a list of revolutionary privateers includes brig Concord, Capt. Ephraim Emerton, Nov. 7, 1782, and Capt. George H. Preble in a similar list published in the Hist. and Gen. Reg., Vol. XXV, p. 365–9, mentions the brig Hound, fourteen guns, twenty men, commanded by Ephraim Emmerton in 1781, and the brig Commerce, six guns, twelve men, with the same commander in 1782.

21 Sept., 1803, Ephraim Emerton is a member of the proprietors' committee of the Tabernacle Church.

I have a tax bill against "Ephiriam" Emmerton of Salem, dated 1 February, 1814, for two old wooden buildings on Federal street. One of these was the house (still, 1881, standing) numbered 165 in the chart of 1874, where he lived and died.

I have a tax bill of 1815 against one Robert Foster, in which the name Ephraim Emmerton, collector, appears in type as well as in manuscript.

Not far from the centre of the Hill Burying Ground on Broad street, Salem, are two white marble head-stones with these inscriptions :

In memory of who departed this life

24 Aug. 1824
in the 76th year of his age.

From life's lov'd scene submissive he retir'd,
And with a Christian's calmest hope expir'd.

Lo soft remembrance drops the feeling tear
And real friendship stands a mourner here.

The stones are still, 27 June, 1881, whole and firm, but the weather has roughened them so that the inscriptions are not so easily read.

8 Joanna (1 John) born 31 Dec., 1750, married 26 Nov., 1772, Daniel Webb of whom I have learned nothing more than the record at the Tabernacle Church, viz., Daniel, of Daniel and Joanna Webb, baptized 19 Nov., 1775.

9 Jeremiah (1 John) born in Salem 23 Jan., 1753, died in Salem 18 Aug., 1826, married first in 1776 (published 9 November) Rebecca Murray, buried 2 Aug., 1784, daughter of Samuel Murray, cooper of Salem. He married second, 11 Aug., 1785, Elizabeth (Newhall) widow of John Ives of Salem, born 23 June, 1761, in Lynn, died 28 March, 1837.²⁵

By Rebecca he had :

14 Rebecca, b. 9 Oct., 1778; d. 22 Dec., 1857; unmarried.

15 Jeremiah, b. 17 Dec., 1779; d. 1 Dec., 1820; m. Mary Newhall of Lynn.

By Elizabeth he had :

16 William, b. 10 Oct., 1786; d. 17 Oct., 1871; m. 21 May, 1809, Abigail E. Stone.

17 James, b. 21 April, 1789; d. 7 June 1835; m. 15 Dec., 1816; Hannah M. Sweetser.

18 Ephraim, b. 6 July, 1791; d. 22 March, 1877; m. 8 June, 1826, Mary Ann Sage.

19 Elizabeth, b. 10 July, 1794; d. 13 Sept., 1797.

20 Mary, b. 27 March, 1795; d. 3 Aug., 1838; m. 3 Sept., 1824, George Robinson.

21 Elizabeth, b. 3 Aug., 1798; d. 21 Sept., 1798.

22 Eliza, b. 10 Nov., 1802; d. 18 Aug., 1804.

Jeremiah's seafaring life must have begun early for I have a receipt drawn up by E. Hasket Derby, dated 11 Feb., 1775 (it might well be July, but I do not see how to reconcile that with the date of the pay roll quoted below) for £285-0s-0d., Old Tenor, for nine casks of rice sold the Province, "the other one is at Mr. Putnam's at Danvers for the Acc^t of Cap. Emerton." It is receipted by "Jeremiah Emmerton."

I recall one of my father's stories of his father's seafaring life, which may serve to illustrate by what close economies one of the old-time fortunes was amassed.

A voyage was over, and in clearing up, he was about to throw away the pieces of pine board which had served for plates on the cabin-table, but was stopped by the owner's eager "No, no, Jerry, they will serve quite as well another voyage!"

In the files at the State House, Boston, in a pay roll up to 1 Aug., 1775, of Captain Nathan Brown's company in Colonel John Mansfield's Regiment, in the army before Boston, occurs Sergeant Jeremiah Emerton of Salem.

²⁵ See appendix.

My father, in his last years, told me that the chambers of the Shepard house in Brown street (No. 25 in the chart of 1874) was his father's dwelling during his early married life.

It would seem that Jeremiah must have performed his father's duties as Master of the Workhouse for some months, at least, previous to John's death, for there is a balance due Jeremiah Emerton at the end of Feb., 1784, and one must count back beyond the date of his regular appointment to cover the thirty-three years of continued residence which father's journal claims at the time of final removal to East (Forrester) street 6 Dec. 1816.

The record runs as follows: "July 1784 Jeremiah Emerton was appointed master of the Workhouse which appointment he accepted of upon the following terms — to be paid the sum of sixty pounds per annum to be allowed his house, Rent, fire-wood and light, Small Beer Milk & Sauce for his family use out of the Common Stock."

Rebecca Murray was daughter of Samuel, a cooper deceased 1794, when Jeremiah is appointed guardian over his children's interest in their grandfather's estate, and, perhaps, Elizabeth, daughter of Samuel Larrabee of Lynn, who died 26 March, 1774. In the Workhouse Records is an order dated 2 Aug., 1784, to Philip English "for burying Mrs. Emerton."

I have a "Tax-list of Lands — Dwelling Houses etc. owned by Jeremiah Emerton and others, on the 1st day of February 1814 — within the Ninth District of the State of Massachusetts and Town of Salem."

It includes "One dwelling house built of wood and two story high, forty by thirty-three, situated on East street, three Quarters finished and 190½ polls of land under and adjoining, of which 73½ belong to Betsey Ives."

This land was inherited by Jeremiah's second wife Elizabeth from her first husband John Ives, and was part of the homestead of his grandfather Benjamin.

Betsey Ives, mentioned as owner of a part, was a widow of Elizabeth's son, by her first marriage, John Ives, born in Lynn 22 Dec., 1783, died at sea on a voyage to the Havana in 1809, having married July, 1809, Betsey, daughter of Joshua and Lydia (Derby) Cross, who was born 11 Aug., 1784; afterwards married 15 April, 1816, Oliver Parsons, and died in Salem, 9 Sept., 1862.

The house (now No. 22 Forrester street) was occupied by the old people till their death, in part by their sons William and James for short periods, and by Rebecca till about 1856.

It was held as undivided property by the heirs till 1871, when they sold to James A. Gillis, Esq., who laid out Emmerton street in the rear.

13 April, 1795. The committee of the Tabernacle sell to Jeremiah Emerton for eight pounds, eighteen shillings "a certain half of a wall pew on the south side of the meeting-house with the proportion of land thereunto belonging being N° 12 with its appurtenances."

28 Sept., 1803. The committee sell with the same phraseology one-half of N° 12 for forty dollars.

1 Jan'y, 1828. The estate of Jeremiah Emerton pays $16.14 tax on Pew N° 12.

12 John (1 John) born 23 July, 1760. In a list of "Men detached to serve in R Island according to resolve of General Court, June 16, 1781," appears John Emerton, jr.

This could have been no other than 12 John, but I know nothing more about him.

14 Rebecca (9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born in Salem 9 Oct., 1778, died in Salem 22 Dec., 1857, was never married. She was a tailoress and spent many busy years working for neighboring families. As I have said, she lived with her father and stepmother during their lives, and after the latter's death occupied rooms in the East street house alone, till the loss of her eyesight, about 1849-50, compelled her to employ a companion-house-keeper.

I well remember the cheerfulness with which she endured the deprivation of sight and the industry which would not permit even blindness to prevent her knitting and plain sewing.

To have her nearer his watchful care her brother Ephraim hired rooms for her in Crombie street, where on the 22 Dec., 1857, she finally yielded to a hemiplegia of about two months' continuation.

15 Jeremiah (9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born in Salem 17 Dec., 1779, died in Lynn 1 Dec., 1820, married 27 Aug., 1798, Mary Newhall, of Lynn, born 15 May, 1778, died 3 Aug., 1862.²⁶ He was a shoemaker in Lynn, and once lived in Boston.

Their children were :

23 Rebecca, b. 19 April, 1799; d. 2 March, 1848; m. 2 Dec., 1828, Lambert Tuttle.

24 Mary Ann, b. 5 Nov., 1800; m. Richard Valpy.

36 Mary Robinson, b. in Lynn 29 March, 1824; m. 4 Sept., 1851, R. H. Farrant.

William was a tailor, and followed his trade in Boston and Lynn as well as in Salem, and lived for a while in Portland, Maine.

17 James (9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born in Salem 21 April, 1789, died at sea 7 June, 1835, married 15 Dec., 1816, Hannah Mansfield born in Salem 17 Dec., 1789, died in Salem 24 Jan., 1871, daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth Wells Sweetser.

They had :

37 James, b. 14 Oct., 1817; m. 8 Sept., 1841, Martha M. West.

After a short apprenticeship to Jabez Baldwin, a jeweller of Salem, James sought more active employment at sea. During the war he was mate of a schooner, Letter of Marque, Capt. Moriarty, which went to Calcutta ostensibly to carry supplies to the missionaries, but really to purchase Calcutta goods in anticipation of peace. The English authorities, seeing through the little game, condemned the schooner, and sent the officers, prisoners of war, to England, where they were paroled at Ashburton, Devonshire. A copy of his parole and a bill drawn on his father Jeremiah, in favor of James Buffington, are still extant, both signed James Emmerton.

On the proclamation of peace he brought the brig George Little from Cronstadt.

After some years in the Russia trade, as mate of the brig Rebecca, Capt. William Duncan, he made several voyages to the east coast of Africa in the brig Seaman, Capt. Daniel Brookhouse, and in the brigs Reaper and Fawn. In 1828, and afterwards, he was master of the brig Shawmut. In 1834 with his brother Ephraim he bought the brig Richmond and took her on a Zanzibar voyage.

18 Ephraim (9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born 6 July, 1791, died 22 March, 1877, married 8 June, 1826, Mary Ann Sage, born 1 Apr., 1805, daughter of Daniel and Deborah (Silsbee) Sage,²⁷ of Salem.

They had :

38 Ephraim Augustus, b. 9 M'ch, 1827; m. ¹ Caroline E. Osgood; ² Lucy Osgood.

39 William Henry, b. 17 J'ne, 1828; d. 26 Aug., 1871; m. 7 J'ne, '65, M. E. R. Stevens.

40 Mary Ann Sage, b. 28 Nov., 1829; m. 25 M'ch, 1852, Joseph Osgood.²⁷

41 Daniel Sage, b. 13 Sept., 1831; d. 26 Dec., 1872.

42 Elizabeth Newhall. b. 21 May, 1833, d. 6 Dec., 1833.

43 James Arthur, b. 28 Aug., 1834.

44 George Robinson, b. 9 Feb., 1836; m. 7 Oct., 1863, Mary J. Bertram.

45 Edward Putnam, b. 15 Sept., 1837; d. 4 Aug., 1864.

46 A son, b. 31 Aug., 1839; d. 1 Sept., 1839.

47 Caroline Prince, b. 7 April, 1841; d. 31 July, 1849.

48 Charles Silsbee, b. 29 Jan., 1843; m. 23 July, 1879, Alice G. Perley.

Ephraim was early initiated into the mysteries of commerce. So early as the summer of 1806, when he was fifteen, he had sent an adventure to Alexandria, Va., in the hands of his half-brother John Ives.

This was followed by his employment in the counting-room of Clifford Crowninshield, who was cousin to John Ives, sen., from May, 1807, till the death of his employer.

In 1810 he was clerk to Robert Stone, jr.

²⁷ See appendix.

In 1811 he made a voyage to Russia in the ship Mary Ann, as clerk to Capt. Timothy Wellman.

During the locally unpopular war of 1812, with its long period of enforced idleness, doubly bitter to enterprising young Federalists, he was sergeant of "The Essex Guards," a company mostly made up of young seafarers and justly famous for drill and military discipline, though never called upon for duty away from home.

Meanwhile he was Ensign of "The Washington Rangers" a company organized about 1807, and made up of those too young to serve in the militia. Some account of this company and the speech of the Ensign, on accepting colors presented to the company on July 4, 1808, may be found in the Historical Collections of the Essex Institute, Vol. VI, p. 202.

An order, still extant, dated Camp (on the Neck near the Willows) 25 July, 1814, instructs "Seargent E. Emerton" how to post the guard under his command that night on Crowninshield's wharf, and another, dated 29th of the same month, directs Ephraim Emmerton and three others "to inspect the arms and accoutrements of the members of the Company of Essex Guards at their respective places of abode."

After the war came a period of active employment as supercargo in the ships Francis, Glide, China, and especially the famous George, that well known type of the American merchant ship of her day, making her annual Calcutta voyage with almost the regularity of the steam service of to-day, handy, swift and lucky, but so small that her supercargo was bantered one day while visiting a huge Company-ship off Sand Heads, with an offer to hoist her on deck and give her a lift homeward. Not much abashed, he suggested a comparison of invoices, and the little George's indigoes and silks far outweighed in that scale the cargo of the bulky boaster.

After his marriage he remained in Salem employing his capital at first in the familiar Calcutta channels, but afterwards for many years in the Zanzibar trade, in which he was among the first to engage.

He owned the brig Richmond, the barque Sophronia, and an interest in several other vessels. He was Alderman 1839-41, and held many places of honor and trust in the gift of his fellow-citizens, but was deterred, as the years went on, from accepting the more prominent positions for which he was nominated, by deafness, which seriously impaired his hearing a mixed conversation.

He was much interested in the "Old Aqueduct," and on his resignation of office in 1850, received "the thanks of the stockholders for the able and acceptable manner in which he had discharged the duties of Director, Vice President and President of the corporation for several years past."

In 1831, he bought the estate No. 13 Summer street. The house, built about 1762, was somewhat noted in the Revolution as the residence of William Pynchon who built it and who refused to repair, otherwise than by covering with boards, his front windows which had been shattered by a mob that resented his Toryism.

President John Adams in his diary under the date of 1766, mentions a pleasant evening at Mr. Pynchon's with a jolly party of lawyers over nuts and wine, pipes and tobacco.

John Derby, the second owner, was specially deputed by the Boston Committee of Safety to carry their account of the battles of Lexington and Concord to England.

Here the subject of our sketch was privileged to live nearly half a century, enjoying a full share of

“that which should accompany old age
As honor, love, obedience, troops of friends.”

And if, as the years passed by, his mental powers did seem to fail him, his bodily health was remarkably preserved, and he enjoyed a great amount of outdoor exercise till within a week of his happy, painless death.

20 Mary (9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born in Salem 27 March, 1795, died 3 Aug., 1838, married 3 Sept., 1824, her cousin George Robinson of Lynn, son of Col. James, the first postmaster of Lynn, and Lydia, daughter of James and Lois (Burrill) Newhall.²⁸

George kept a shoeshop in Petersburg, Va., where they had and lost four children. A son, George, born in Salem, was drowned at Petersburg, 10 July, 1836. Mary died in childbirth. Mr. Robinson went to Georgia and died at Cartersville, 21 Nov., 1859, aged 64 years, leaving a widow and four young daughters. “He was a member and an Elder in the Presbyterian Church where his loss is severely felt.”²⁹

39 William H. (18 Ephraim, 9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born 17 June, 1828, in Salem, died at Revere 26 Aug., 1871, married in Salem 7 June, 1865, Mary Ellen Richardson Stevens, born at Nashville, Tenn., 3 Feb., 1838, daughter of Moses, formerly of Andover and Salem, Mass., and Sally (Beckford) died 3 March, 1876, of Salem.³³

They had :

73 Kate, b. 9 June, 1866, at Salem.

74 Sallie Upham, b. 16 May, 1870, in Providence, R. I.; d. 19 May, 1875, in Salem.

W. Henry was an architect. He practised his profession in Portland, Maine, in Salem, and in Providence, R. I.

In Salem, in partnership with Joseph C. Foster, he designed, among others, the Asiatic Bank Building, Grace Church, and the residence of John Bertram, Esq. In Providence, in partnership with Alfred Stone, he designed the "Wheaton and Anthony," "Woods" and "Elizabeth" business blocks, and the residences of Gov. Burnside and M. B. Lockwood.

Coming to spend Sunday with his family, who were on a summer visit to Salem, he was one of the ill-fated occupants of the last car in the accommodation train at Revere, when it was "telescoped" by the engine of the express train overtaking it. Though not mangled in the collision, he received such injuries from the steam that he survived, mostly unconscious, but a few hours. His family lives at 114 Essex street, Salem.

40 Mary Ann Sage (18 Ephraim, 9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born in Salem 28 Nov., 1829, married 25 March, 1852, Joseph Osgood, born 20 July, 1825, died 20 Aug., 1877, son of Nathaniel W. and Mary B. (Archer) Osgood.³⁴

They had :

Josephine Osgood, b. 23 March, 1853.

Capt. Joseph Osgood followed the sea more than twenty years. He was, for a long time, in the employ of Daniel Bacon of Boston, and his sons.

He was master of, among others, the clipper ship "Game Cock" and the "Oriental," and in these vessels his wife and daughter accompanied him; in the Game Cock to San Francisco and Shanghai, in the Oriental to Melbourne and Bombay, where the ship was sold and they returned "overland." Most of his voyages were to the East Indies including Australia and New Zealand.

He lived for some time at Cooperstown, Pa., as agent of an oil company, but did not meet with much success. From 1870 he lived in North Salem near Nursery street. He was a member of the Common Council in 1871, and served on the School Committee.

41 Daniel Sage (18 Ephraim, 9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born in Salem 13 Sept., 1831, died there 26 Dec., 1872, was a mariner, beginning 13 Nov., 1847, before the mast on the ship Hamilton; he passed ten years of busy seafaring, mostly pepper voyages to the coast of Sumatra and thereabouts, holding, after 1855, the position of first officer. The ship Ann Maria, of which he was mate, caught fire in the harbor of Singapore, and was saved from total destruction by his coolness and personal exertion.

In the spring of 1858 he had an attack of paralysis from which he never recovered.

43 James Arthur (18 Ephraim, 9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born in Salem 28 Aug., 1834. Was graduated in Arts at Harvard College in 1855 and in Medicine in 1858. Spent some six months abroad in 1858-9. Was resident-student at the Rotundo Lying-in Hospital, and attended Surgeon Wilde's Eye and Ear clinics at Dublin.

In October, 1861, enlisted in Company "F," 23d Mass. Vol. Inf. Was warranted Corporal. Served in that capacity at Roanoke Island and New Berne. Served, however, in each battle, in the crew of a boat-gun commanded by E. H. Dayton, the captain of a transport, the schooner Highlander.

The regiment suffered severely from typhoid, at New Berne, in the spring of 1862, and Corporal Emmerton was detailed to act as assistant surgeon when it was sent out to Bachelder's Creek on picket duty, and the regimental surgeons were detained in New Berne by the sick in hospital. Was commissioned Ass't Surgeon to date from 31 July, 1862. Served in that capacity mostly in General Hospitals, though Post-Surgeon of Plymouth, N. C., when it was burned in December, 1862, sharing all the experiences of the regiment in Virginia in the winter and spring of 1863-4 (including the Bermuda Hundred's campaign of Butler), and going to reinforce Grant at the second Cold Harbor fight, till 20 June, 1864. Was mustered in as Surgeon of the 2d Mass. Heavy Artillery to date from 27 June, 1864, and served in that capacity till mustered out in October, 1865.

This duty was mostly quiet garrison life diversified by the yellow fever epidemic, when just one-half of the surgical staff was buried, and by the movement, in aid of Sherman, towards Goldsboro' in March, 1865, when the fairly sharp fighting was lost sight of in the movements of mighty armies. Was Post-Surgeon of Kinston, N. C., for a time.

In the winter of 1866-7 was Assistant-physician at the State Lunatic Asylum, in Utica, N. Y., and since resigning that position has not practised medicine.

Became interested in genealogical research, and published in the Historical Collections of the Essex Institute some papers of local interest including "Gleanings from English Records, etc.," the result of a summer's research in London in 1879 in company with his friend H. F. Waters, and genealogical sketches of the Prince and Silsbee families of Salem.

44 George Robinson (18 Ephraim, 9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born in Salem 9 Feb., 1836, married in Salem 7 Oct., 1863, Mary Jane, born 27 M'ch, 1837, in Salem, daughter of Capt. John and Mary (Smith) Bertram.³⁵

They had, born in Salem :

⁷⁵ Caroline Osgood, b. 21 April, 1866.

⁷⁶ Annie Bertram, b. 6 November, 1868.

George R. went from school to the busy counting-room of Glidden & Williams in Boston, and had his full share of the bustle of early Californian freighting times. In 1860 he associated himself with Edward Chamberlain in the manufacture of chemicals.

³⁵ See appendix.

When the war broke out he had had no military experience but joined and became Lieutenant in the Union Drill Club, an organization which went to the front as Company F, 23d Mass. Vol. Inf., with George R. as 2d Lieutenant in November, 1861.

In this capacity he shared the fortunes of Burnside's North Carolina campaign till midsummer of 1862, when he was invalided home.

His recovery was so slow that he was unable to accept the promotion that awaited him, and, unwilling to occupy a position to whose duties he was unequal, he reluctantly resigned. Meanwhile his business had not prospered in the hands of his partner, and dissolving that connection he made a fresh one with his brother E. Augustus which continued several years. He joined his father-in-law in his extensive East Indian commerce in 1869, and continues that till this time.

He was elected Trustee of the Savings Bank about 1870, was made in 1873 Director, and in 1880 President of the Merchants Bank. During the four years, 1877-80, he was Alderman of the city and President of the Board. Has resided, since 1867, at No. 9 Summer street, Salem.

48 Charles Silsbee (18 Eph'm, 9 Jeremiah, 1 John) born in Salem 29 Jan., 1843, married 23 July, 1879, in Byfield, Parish of Newbury, Mass., Alice Gage, born 5 Oct., 1854, daughter of Oliver and Harriet (Perley) Perley, of Georgetown, who had been brought up from infancy by her uncle, Sewall Woodman of Byfield.

They had, born in Peabody, Mass. :

77 Ethel, b. 17 May, 1880.

Charles S. went from Dummer Academy in Byfield, Mass., to the counting-room of D. G. & W. B. Bacon, in Boston, when the country was already throbbing with the excitement of the coming civil war. He joined the Salem Light Infantry, a company which acquired special distinction by its superiority in the new "Zouave" drill learned from Capt. A. F. Devereux, and went with it as Sergeant, when it went out as flank-company of the 8th Mass. Militia, for the three months' service in April, 1861.

In November, 1861, he went out again as 1st Lieut. of Company A, 23d Mass. Vol. Inf.; was on the fields of Roanoke and New Berne; was regimental adjutant in 1862, and that fall became aid-de-camp to Gen. C. A. Heckman commanding the brigade. This place he held till the General's capture at Drury's Bluff, and with his successor, Gen. G. J. Stannard, not only on the brigade staff but as well when Gen. S. commanded the division before Petersburg.

Mustered out with his regiment at the expiration of their three years' service, he was commissioned to command a company of cavalry, but the chance for active service being over, he resigned. After the war he tried cultivating long-staple cotton at Gordon, Florida, but satisfied after two years that further trial meant deeper failure, he left the South and commenced farming in Peabody, Mass.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Canceled
One volume allowed at a time, and obtained only by card. To be kept 14 days (or 21 days in the case of fiction and juvenile books published within one year) without fine; not to be renewed; to be reclaimed by messenger after 21 days, who will collect 20 cents besides fine of 2 cents a day, including Sundays and holidays; not to be lent out of the borrower's household, and not to be transferred; to be returned at this Hall.

Borrowers finding this book mutilated or unwarrantably defaced, are expected to report it; and also any undue delay in the delivery of books.

No claim can be established because of the failure of any notice, to or from the Library, through the mail.

The record below must not be made or altered by borrower.
